The most important trip you may take in life is meeting people half way. (Henry Boyle)

Focusing on: Negotiation Skills

Regarding negotiation in the workplace:
Managers can spend as much as 20% of their time dealing with conflict and resolution, primarily through the process of negotiation. Dr. Joseph F. Byres says “the time spent in negotiation (20%) probably affects the other 80% of a manager's time and the time of his or her subordinates. Therefore, it is only logical to make time spent in negotiation as effective as possible.”

Regarding customers and clients:
For a lasting client relationship, it is important that both parties come away from negotiations with a sense of satisfaction. When both parties are satisfied, they have a desire to continue working together! Learn how to achieve a win-win situation through the process of negotiation.
